

The Changing Retail Fuel Market

CSP / SOI Conference
June 8, 2000

Steven J. Montgomery
b2b Solutions, LLC

The Retail Fuel Market Is Changing

Priceline.com

Supermarkets

Traditional C-Stores /
Oil Companies

Retail Fuel
Market

Mass Merchants

Super C-Stores

Membership
Organizations

The Change is Confusing To Customers

An example of wacky price disparities

Competition and arcane oil industry pricing practices have led to wide disparities in gasoline prices in cities around the country. These three 76 stations in Los Angeles are less than 5 miles apart, but last week they were selling the same brand and grade of unleaded gasoline for just under $1.56, $1.64 and $1.66.

Gas price pains: Kiki Bell, top left, buys gas at a 76 station in Los Angeles, where stations on Pico Boulevard, top and above, charge $1.56-1.64 a gallon. Station owners say it's because suppliers charge different prices, too.

Cover story

Why's gas less a block away?

More Confusion 2

MEIJER FREE GAS
REWARDS

Grocery Deli Frozen Dairy Health & Beauty Care

Meat & Seafood Bakery Produce Main Page

Grocery Department

Purchase	and Save
(2) AquaFina Water 6 pk./24 oz.	50¢
Betty Crocker Brownie Mix 19.8-20.5 oz.	25¢
Betty Crocker Premium Brownie Mix 19.8-26.7 oz.	25¢
Betty Crocker Frosting Rich & Creamy, Sweet Rewards. Toppers, Whipped 12-16 oz.	25¢
Betty Crocker Potato Buds Mashed 13.75 oz.	35¢
Betty Crocker Potato Buds Mashed 28 oz.	65¢
Betty Crocker Specialty Potatoes 4.5-8.4 oz.	20¢
	25¢

Demystification of Gasoline

- ✍ Government Standards
- ✍ Reformulated Gasoline
- ✍ More Unbranded Locations
- ✍ Increasing Use of Electronics / Less Human Interaction
- ✍ Number of Traditional Outlets Down
- ✍ Number of Non-Traditional Outlets Up

How Do They Enter The Market

✍ Form Alliances

✍ Rent the Expertise

✍ Buy Existing Operations

✍ Build Your Own

For More Information on
The Changing Retail Fuel
Market

Contact

Steve Montgomery

b2b Solutions

847.295.2418

or

sjm@b2bsolutionsllc.com

